on the Stand. THE TRIAL OF OFFICER TRUBY SHAUL, preme Court.

The Lee murder trial was continued vesterday in the Criminal Court. All the evidence produced tended to show that Lee had been drinking for some time prior to shooting Natcher.

When the Lee murder trial opened yesterday morning W. W. Price, a contractor, was placed on the stand. Five days before the shooting Lee had told him of his money dealings with Natcher and said if the latter did not pay he would do him up.

William Roseburg, of the Bank of Pittsburg, said Lee told Natcher he would make him leave the town. William Turner, an engineer, heard Lee say to Natcher: "Till fix you; now, mind that"

This was a week before the shooting.

Thomas Mosely, a patrol wagon policeman, testified that on the day before the shooting Lee came to the station. He said: "I shouldn't be surprised if you needed this wagon for me or some one else before long; it don't take a bundred years to get even with some people. Maybe the wagon will need me sometime." On redirect examination the witness said Lee talked in a firm, coherent manner.

After the noon recess Thomas M. Marshall opened the case for the defense. He speke of the friendship between Natcher and Lee, saying the latter had mortgaged his house to help the former. Common Pleas No. 2. Dierstein was a widower 65 years of age, and Mrs. Schubkagel was a widow 54 years old. The courtship lasted 15 days. Dierstein, it was alleged, asked Mra Schubkagel to marry him on July 15, 1887, one month atter his first wife had died. Shortly afterward he married again, but it was another woman. Mrs. Scaubkagel received a verdict for $600 damages and Messrs. Whitesell & Sons, his attorneys, appealed the case. They denied the promise and held that Dierstein, by reason of his age, was unable to perform a contract of marriage. Messrs. Robb & Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Schubkagel's attorneys, in their brief to the Supreme Court, say:

ALL LAID TO WHISKY.

He said that they would show that Lee had been drinking heavily before the shooting, was treated for excessive drinking after the shooting and that whisky was responsible for the murder.

Nora Gorman, who lived at Lee's house, was Nora Gorman, who lived at Lee's house, was the first witneys for the defense. She testified that Mrs. Lee went to Dayton August 13. Lee commenced to drink as soon as she left. He put alcohol in root beer and three spoonsful in a glass of beer. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday he was very drunk. Friday afternoon he brought his borse into the house and offered the animal beer. On cross-examination she said he had only drank once, a few weeks before, and was not a drinking man. A dozen bottles of beer lasted from Tuesday to Saturday. Saturday.

Alexander Wingert, a painter, who lived at Lee's house, testified to his drinking almost Patrick O'Brien, another painter, also had a Patrick O'Brien, another painter, also had a shop near Lee's. He had known him to be a drinking man for a number of years. On the morning of the shooting Lee came into witness' shop. He talked in a silly manner; said he was going to heaven, and was altogether foolish. On another occasion Lee rode on horseback up to the door of witness' shop and would have ridden in the doorway had not witness good-humoredly stopped him.

THE MESSENGER ON HAND.

John Gannon, a messenger boy, was recalled, and said he had not heard anybody say "Oh, don't" in Natcher's office. He was standing in ront of the office when the shots were fired. Iront of the office when the shots were fired.

Lawrence Sloan, a contractor, testified to meeting Lee on the street a week before the shooting. Lee was drunk at the time. The witness was asked what he thought of Lee's mental condition at the time, and the question was objected to. He said Lee mumbled in his talk, his eyes were bloodshot and he had the general appearance of a drunken tons.

H. H. Bengough, of the City Treasurer's office, testified that on the morning of the shooting Lee went to see him in the office. While witness was talking to some gentleunen Lee interrupted them. He considered Lee's remark foolist. Lee was drunk at the time, but not quarrelsome. quarrensome.

George Slayer, one of Lee's employes, testified to seeing Lee drinking the Tuesday before the shooting, and again on Wednesday morning some nours before the tragedy. Both time?"

The priest said Lee called upon him on the Monday before the shooting. He was drunk and talked incoherently. He told the witness of how Mr. Natcher owed him money, and that certain notes had gone to protest because Natoher had failed to meet them. He was despondent because his credit had been affected by it. The witness advised him to pay the notes and institute legal proceedings to recover on them. At that time Lee showed very strongly the effects of a protracted spree. cover on them. At that time Lee showed very strongly the effects of a protracted spres.

Dr. Chessrown, the jail physician, testified to prescribing for Lee when he was placed in jail. His condition was that and showed the effects of a long spree. His condition was brought on by excessive drinking. To the question: "Are not a man's perceptions at times most keen when his nervous system is affected?" the doctor answered "yes."

when his nervous system to answered "yes."

Thomas Marshall, Jr., called the attention of Judge White to the action of Attorneys Porter and Burleigh alleging they "were smiling" at the jurymen during the trial. Judge White passed over the remark.

AGAINST L. & O. DETECTIVES. A Commission Will Take Testimony on Mc Nulty's Decision.

Judge White yesterday appointed Alex. C. derron commissioner to take testimony in the case of the forfeited recognizances given be-fore Alderman McNulty by E. P. Hesser, J. P. Young and Mark Wishart for their appearance to answer the charge of acting as detectives without a license. They did not appear, and the Alderman declared the bonds forfeited. Suit was entered in the Common Pleas Court to recover on the bonds, but a petition was filed in the Quarter Sessions Court to have the forfoited bonds set aside. Hesser, Young and Wishart were indicted on the charge and were tried and acquitted. James Houston was the bondsman in the cases for the sum of $500 in each case. to answer the charge of acting as detectives

TO TREAT ALL ALIKE,

A Stay of Execution Against Brown & Emery to be Heard.

Another execution to the amount of $4,700 was issued yesterday against Brown & Emery, the contractors at Wilmerding, on a judgment held by the Atlantic Dynamite Company. An application was made yesterday to have the executions stayed. It was stated that Mr. Emery, of the firm, had confessed judgments to preferred creditors, but that Mr. Brown had viously made a voluntary assignment to orge W. Brown for the benefit of creditors. This would leave all creditors on an equal foot-ing. A rule was issued, and the case will be heard on November 2.

preme Court, say:

It appears by the facts in this case that Joseph Dierstein, 'an old, worn-out man, 69 years of age, without property of any kind, lame, weak and broken down in the old age of life,' as claimed by the plaintiff in error, was yet in the heyday of his manly mischief. With a heart beating high with the hone of future wedded bliss, his former wife scarcely cold in the grave, he wooed and won the plaintiff. But his fancies were fickle. He scarce had set foot within that holy ground and sealed his plighted troth with a kins, when his eyes beheld the fair person and fortune of another; whereupon he, gay deceiver, forsook his former love for pastures new. With a heart lacerated by the inconstancy of her faithless lover, the plaintiff instituted this suit to recover for his perfidy. The damages recovered are certainly a small recompense for her wounded affections.

THE EXTRAORDINARY BARGAINS ADVERTISED BY

KAUFMANNS

for this week will not alone be found as represented, but hundreds or others equally desirable will greet you on strolling through the great, store. Never in the history of merchandising could choice clothing be bought right in the midst of the season at such strikingly low figures as we now name. You know the reason for this big sacrifice of profits. It's pressing need of room. Mechanics' delays cause present lack of space for new goods ordered, in anticipation of increased facilities, and certain loss to us of many thousand dollars. Sacrifices throughout our stores would not be necessary had the large new addition of our building been finished at time promised in our contracts. But crying does no good-we'll be as merry as we can and hope for better luck next will be again enlarged when new building is completed. At present, needing space, we make reductions. If you are in want of a Cloak, Jacket, Wrap or Newmarket, come and see the goods and prices and tell us if you ever saw such splendid values.

Just think of our extremely beautiful Imported Long Garments (Directoires, Peasants, etc.) and then consider the reduced prices at which we still them. This, truly, is the chance of chances to save money. Here's an example:

A Lot of First-class Newmarkets at $4.

But, have you a little daughter? One that needs a new cloak? And do you want something stylish, good and cheap? We give you the opportunity. Here it is:

400 Girls' Cloaks, in fresh and handsome styles, from $3 up. Sizes from 2 to 14.

Do you know that we have a complete Infants' and Children's department? You'll think so after you've seen our stock. Cute little Short Walking Coats-no end of them, and the prices amazingly low.

Better buy your Overcoat now, while the stock is overflowingly large and we are compelled to cast profits to the windward. Single and double-breasted Meltons are the fashionable thing now, and we have them in every imaginable color and shade-qualities that'll

For Boys the Cape Overcoat has special charms. No limit to them here. We'll have several thousand less, however, before many days'll have passed. Our prices will furnish the motive power.

We have no space to go into details about

SHOES, HATS, FURNISHINGS, Etc.,

but the bargains are here just the same.
